What is the Total Return on the Notes at Maturity Assuming a Range of Performance for the Index?

The following table illustrates the hypothetical total return at maturity on the Notes. The "total return" as used in this preliminary pricing supplement is the number, expressed as a percentage, that results from comparing the payment at maturity per $1,000 principal amount Note to $1,000. The hypothetical total returns set forth below are for illustrative purposes only and may not be the actual total returns applicable to a purchaser of the Notes. The numbers appearing in the following table and examples have been rounded for ease of analysis. Note that these examples are based on the Initial Level of 11,842.59, the Barrier Level of 9,474.07 (80.00% of the Initial Level, rounded to two decimal places), the Upside Leverage Factor of 1.50 and the Maximum Return of 30.25%. The hypothetical examples below do not take into account any tax consequences from investing in the Notes.

Hypothetical Examples of Amounts Payable at Maturity

The following examples illustrate how the total returns set forth in the table above are calculated.

Example 1: The level of the Index increases from an Initial Level of 11,842.59 to a Final Level of 13,026.85.

Because the Final Level of 13,026.85 is greater than the Initial Level of 11,842.59, and the Index Return of 10.00% times the Upside Leverage Factor of 1.50 does not exceed the Maximum Return of 30.25%, the investor receives a payment at maturity of $1,150.00 per $1,000.00 principal amount Note calculated as follows:

$$$1,000 + [$1,000 \times \text{Index Return} \times \text{Upside Leverage Factor}]$$

$$$1,000 + [$1,000 \times 10.00\% \times 1.50] = $1,150.00$$

The total return on investment of the Notes is 15.00%.

Example 2: The level of the Index decreases from an Initial Level of 11,842.59 to a Final Level of 10,658.33.

Because the Final Level of 10,658.33 is less than Initial Level of 11,842.59 but is not less than the Barrier Level of 9,474.07, the investor will receive a payment at maturity of $1,000 per $1,000 principal amount Note.

The total return on investment of the Notes is 0.00%.

Example 3: The level of the Index decreases from an Initial Level of 11,842.59 to a Final Level of 7,105.55.

Because Final Level of 7,105.55 is less than the Barrier Level of 9,474.07, the investor will receive a payment at maturity of $600.00 per $1,000.00 principal amount Note calculated as follows:

$$$1,000 + [$1,000 \times \text{Index Return}]$$

$$$1,000 + [$1,000 \times -40.00\%] = $600.00$$

The total return on investment of the Notes is -40.00%.

Example 4: The level of the Index increases from an Initial Level of 11,842.59 to a Final Level of 14,803.24.

Because the Index Return of 25.00% times the Upside Leverage Factor of 1.50 exceeds the Maximum Return of 30.25%, the investor will receive a payment at maturity of $1,302.50 per $1,000 principal amount Note, the maximum total payment on the Notes.

The total return on investment of the Notes is 30.25%.

Selected Purchase Considerations

Market Disruption Events and Adjustments−The Final Valuation Date, the Maturity Date and the payment at maturity are subject to adjustment as described in the following sections of the prospectus supplement:

For a description of what constitutes a market disruption event with respect to the Index as well as the consequences of that market disruption event, see “Reference Assets−Indices−Market Disruption Events for Securities with the Reference Asset Comprised of an Index or Indices of Equity Securities”; and

For a description of further adjustments that may affect the Index, see “Reference Assets−Indices−Adjustments Relating to Securities with the Reference Asset Comprised of an Index”.

Exposure to the Equities of the Hang Seng China Enterprises Index−The return on the Notes is linked to the performance of the Index from the Initial Valuation Date to the Final Valuation Date. The Index is intended to track the performance of all the Hong Kong listed H-Shares of Chinese enterprises, one year after the first H-Share company was listed on the Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited. For additional information about the Index, see the information set forth under "Non Proprietary Indices−Equity Indices−Hang Seng China Enterprises Index" in the accompanying index supplement.

Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Considerations−The material tax consequences of your investment in the Notes are summarized below. The discussion below supplements the discussion under "Certain U.S. Federal Income Tax Considerations" in the accompanying prospectus supplement. As described in the prospectus supplement, this section applies to you only if you are a U.S. holder (as defined in the accompanying prospectus supplement) and you hold your Notes as capital assets for tax purposes and does not apply to you if you are a member of a class of holders subject to special rules or are otherwise excluded from the discussion in the prospectus supplement (for example, if you did not purchase your Notes in the initial issuance of the Notes).

The United States federal income tax consequences of your investment in the Notes are uncertain and the Internal Revenue Service could assert that the Notes should be taxed in a manner that is different than described below. Pursuant to the terms of the Notes, Barclays Bank PLC and you agree, in the absence of a change in law or an administrative or judicial ruling to the contrary, to characterize your Notes as a pre-paid cash-settled executory contract with respect to the Index. If your Notes are so treated, you should generally recognize capital gain or loss upon the sale or maturity of your Notes in an amount equal to the difference between the amount you receive at such time and the amount you paid for your Notes. Such gain or loss should generally be long-term capital gain or loss if you have held your Notes for more than one year.

In the opinion of our special tax counsel, Sullivan & Cromwell LLP, it would be reasonable to treat your Notes in the manner described above. This opinion assumes that the description of the terms of the Notes in this preliminary pricing supplement is materially correct.

As discussed further in the accompanying prospectus supplement, the Treasury Department and the Internal Revenue Service are actively considering various alternative treatments that may apply to instruments such as the Notes, possibly with retroactive effect.

For a further discussion of the tax treatment of your Notes as well as possible alternative characterizations, please see the discussion under the heading "Certain U.S. Federal Income Tax Considerations−Certain Notes Treated as Forward Contracts or Executory Contracts" in the accompanying prospectus supplement. You should consult your tax advisor as to the possible alternative treatments in respect of the Notes. For additional, important considerations related to tax risks associated with investing in the Notes, you should also examine the discussion in "Selected Risk Considerations−Taxes", in this preliminary pricing supplement.

"Specified Foreign Financial Asset" Reporting. Under legislation enacted in 2010, owners of "specified foreign financial assets" with an aggregate value in excess of $50,000 (and in some circumstances, a higher threshold) may be required to file an information report with respect to such assets with their tax returns. "Specified foreign financial assets" generally include any financial accounts maintained by foreign financial institutions, as well as any of the following (which may include your Notes), but only if they are not held in accounts maintained by financial institutions: (i) stocks and securities issued by non-U.S. persons, (ii) financial instruments and contracts held for investment that have non-U.S. issuers or counterparties and (iii) interests in foreign entities. Holders are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding the application of this legislation to their ownership of the Notes.

Selected Risk Considerations

An investment in the Notes involves significant risks. Investing in the Notes is not equivalent to investing directly in the Index. These risks are explained in more detail in the "Risk Factors" section of the prospectus supplement, including the risk factors discussed under the following headings:

"Risk Factors−Risks Relating to All Securities";

“Risk Factors−Additional Risks Relating to Notes Which Are Not Characterized as Being Fully Principal Protected or Are Characterized as Being Partially Protected or Contingently Protected”;

“Risk Factors−Additional Risks Relating to Notes Which Pay No Interest”;

“Risk Factors−Additional Risks Relating to Securities with a Maximum Return, Maximum Rate, Ceiling or Cap”;

“Risk Factors−Additional Risks Relating to Securities with a Barrier Percentage or a Barrier Level”; and

"Risk Factors−Additional Risks Relating to Securities with Reference Assets That Are Equity Securities or Shares or Other Interests in Exchange-Traded Funds, That Contain Equity Securities or Shares or Other Interests in Exchange-Traded Funds or That Are Based in Part on Equity Securities or Shares or Other Interests in Exchange-Traded Funds."

In addition to the risks described above, you should consider the following:

Your Investment in the Notes May Result in a Significant Loss−The Notes do not guarantee any return of principal. The return on the Notes at maturity is linked to the performance of the Index and will depend on whether, and the extent to which, the Index Return is positive or negative. If the Final Level of the Index is less than the Barrier Level, your Notes will be fully exposed to the decline in the Index from the Initial Level to the Final Level and you will lose some or all of your investment in the Notes. You may lose up to 100% of your investment in the Notes.

Credit of Issuer−The Notes are senior unsecured debt obligations of the issuer, Barclays Bank PLC and are not, either directly or indirectly, an obligation of any third party. Any payment to be made on the Notes depends on the ability of Barclays Bank PLC to satisfy its obligations as they come due and is not guaranteed by any third party. In the event Barclays Bank PLC were to default on its obligations, you may not receive any amounts owed to you under the terms of the Notes.

Any Positive Return on the Notes Will Not Exceed the Maximum Return−If the Index Return is greater than 0%, for each $1,000 principal amount Note, you will receive at maturity $1,000 plus an additional amount that will not exceed the Maximum Return multiplied by $1,000. Accordingly, the maximum possible payment that you may receive at maturity will be $1,302.50 per $1,000 principal amount Note that you hold.

No Direct Exposure to Fluctuations in Foreign Exchange Rates−The value of your Notes will not be adjusted for exchange rate fluctuations between the U.S. dollars and the currency in which the stocks composing the Index are denominated, although any currency fluctuations could affect the performance of the Index. Therefore, if the applicable currency appreciates or depreciates relative to the U.S. dollar over the term of the Notes, you will not receive any additional payment or incur any reduction in your payment at maturity.

Non-U.S. Securities Markets Risks−The stocks included in the Index are issued by foreign companies in foreign securities markets. These stocks may be more volatile and may be subject to different political, market, economic, exchange rate, regulatory and other risks which may have a negative impact on the performance of the financial products linked to the Index, which may have an adverse effect on the Notes. Also, the public availability of information concerning the issuers of stocks included in the Index will vary depending on their home jurisdiction and the reporting requirements imposed by their respective regulators. In addition, the issuers of the stocks included in the Index may be subject to accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards and requirement that differ from those applicable to United States reporting companies.

Risks Associated with Emerging Markets−An investment in the Notes will involve risks not generally associated with investments which have no emerging market component. In particular, many emerging nations are undergoing rapid institutional change, involving the restructuring of economic, political, financial and legal systems. Regulatory and tax environments may be subject to change without review or appeal. Many emerging markets suffer from underdevelopment of capital markets and tax regulation. The risk of expropriation and nationalization remains a threat. Guarding against such risks is made more difficult by low levels of corporate disclosure and unreliability of economic and financial data.

No Interest or Dividend Payments or Voting Rights−As a holder of the Notes, you will not receive interest payments, and you will not have voting rights or rights to receive cash dividends or other distributions or other rights that holders of securities composing the Index would have.

The Payment at Maturity of Your Notes is Not Based on the Level of the Index at Any Time Other than the Final Level on the Final Valuation Date−The Final Level of the Index and the Index Return will be based solely on the Index Closing Level on the Final Valuation Date. Therefore, if the level of the Index dropped precipitously on the Final Valuation Date, the payment at maturity, if any, that you will receive for your Notes may be significantly less than it would otherwise have been had the payment at maturity been linked to the level of the Index prior to such drop.

Lack of Liquidity−The Notes will not be listed on any securities exchange. Barclays Capital Inc. and other affiliates of Barclays Bank PLC intend to make a secondary market for the Notes but are not required to do so, and may discontinue any such secondary market making at any time, without notice. Barclays Capital Inc. may at any time hold unsold inventory, which may inhibit the development of a secondary market for the Notes. Even if there is a secondary market, it may not provide enough liquidity to allow you to trade or sell the Notes easily. Because other dealers are not likely to make a secondary market for the Notes, the price at which you may be able to trade your Notes is likely to depend on the price, if any, at which Barclays Capital Inc. and other affiliates of Barclays Bank PLC are willing to buy the Notes. The Notes are not designed to be short-term trading instruments. Accordingly, you should be able and willing to hold your Notes to maturity.

Certain Built-In Costs Are Likely to Adversely Affect the Value of the Notes Prior to Maturity−While the payment at maturity described in this preliminary pricing supplement is based on the full principal amount of your Notes, the original issue price of the Notes includes the agent’ s commission and the cost of hedging our obligations under the Notes through one or more of our affiliates. As a result, the price, if any, at which Barclays Capital Inc. and other affiliates of Barclays Bank PLC will be willing to purchase Notes from you in secondary market transactions will likely be lower than the price you paid for your Notes, and any sale prior to the Maturity Date could result in a substantial loss to you.

Potential Conflicts−We and our affiliates play a variety of roles in connection with the issuance of the Notes, including acting as calculation agent and hedging our obligations under the Notes. In performing these duties, the economic interests of the calculation agent and other affiliates of ours are potentially adverse to your interests as an investor in the Notes.

Taxes−The U.S. federal income tax treatment of the Notes is uncertain and the Internal Revenue Service could assert that the Notes should be taxed in a manner that is different than described above. As discussed further in the accompanying prospectus supplement, the Internal Revenue Service issued a notice in 2007 indicating that it and the Treasury Department are actively considering whether, among other issues, you should be required to accrue interest over the term of an instrument such as the Notes and whether all or part of the gain you may recognize upon the sale or maturity of an instrument such as the Notes could be treated as ordinary income. Similarly, the Internal Revenue Service and the Treasury Department have current projects open with regard to the tax treatment of pre-paid forward contracts and contingent notional principal contracts. While it is impossible to anticipate how any ultimate guidance would affect the tax treatment of instruments such as the Notes (and while any such guidance may be issued on a prospective basis only), such guidance could be applied retroactively and could in any case increase the likelihood that you will be required to accrue income over the term of an instrument such as the Notes even though you will not receive any payments with respect to the Notes until maturity. The outcome of this process is uncertain. You should consult your tax advisor as to the possible alternative treatments in respect of the Notes.

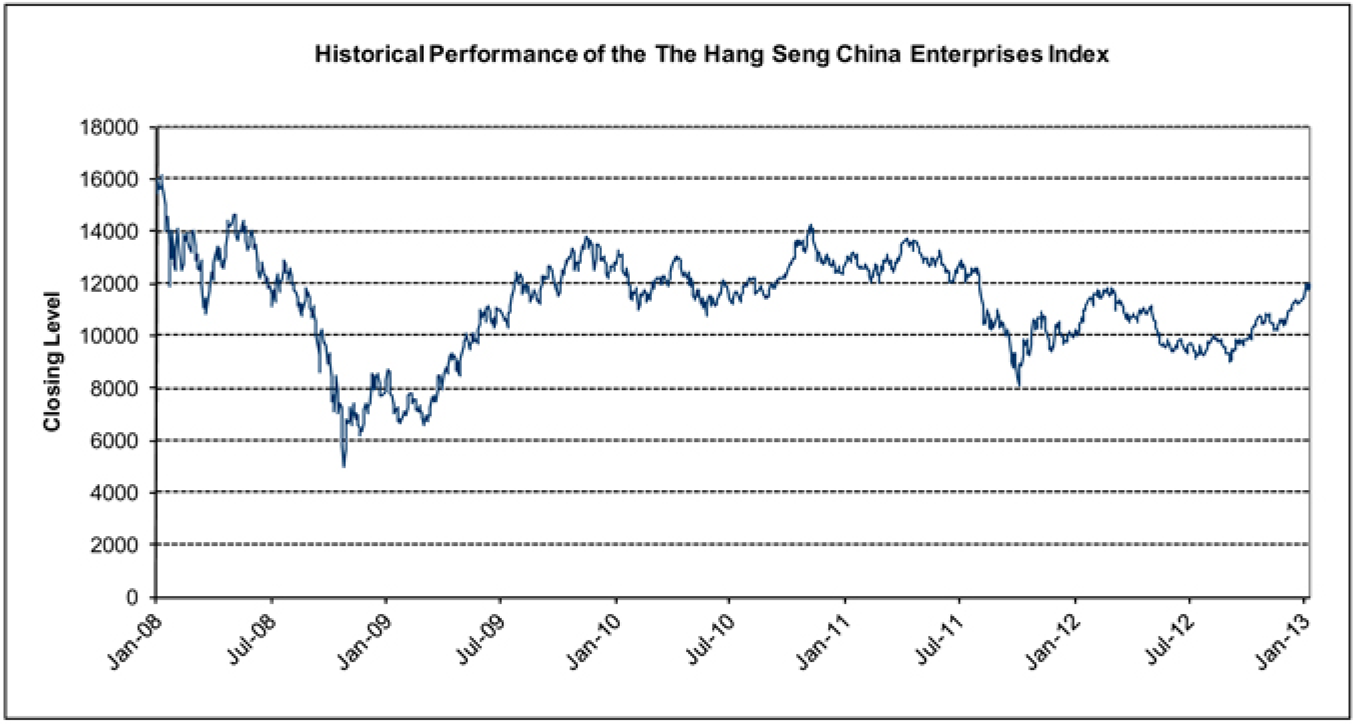
Many Economic and Market Factors Will Impact the Value of the Notes−In addition to the level of the Index, the value of the Notes will be affected by a number of economic and market factors that may either offset or magnify each other, including:

- the expected volatility of the Index;
- the time to maturity of the Notes;
- the dividend rate on the common stocks underlying the Index;
- interest and yield rates in the market generally;
- a variety of economic, financial, political, regulatory or judicial events; and
- our creditworthiness, including actual or anticipated downgrades in our credit ratings.

Historical Information

The following graph sets forth the historical performance of the Index based on the daily Index Closing Level from January 1, 2008 through January 11, 2013. The Index Closing Level on January 11, 2013 was 11,842.59.

We obtained the Index Closing Levels below from Bloomberg, L.P. We have not independently verified the accuracy or completeness of the information obtained from Bloomberg, L.P. The historical levels of the Index should not be taken as an indication of future performance, and no assurance can be given as to the Index Closing Level on the Final Valuation Date. We cannot give you assurance that the performance of the Index will result in the return of any of your initial investment.



PAST PERFORMANCE IS NOT INDICATIVE OF FUTURE RESULTS.

SUPPLEMENTAL PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION

We will agree to sell to Barclays Capital Inc. (the "Agent"), and the Agent will agree to purchase from us, the principal amount of the Notes, and at the price, specified on the cover of the related pricing supplement, the document that will be filed pursuant to Rule 424(b) containing the final pricing terms of the Notes. The Agent will commit to take and pay for all of the Notes, if any are taken.
