Item 5.02. Departure of Directors or Certain Officers; Election of Directors; Appointment of Certain Officers; Compensatory Arrangements of Certain Officers.

On May 15, 2013, Novelis Inc. (the "Company"), following a meeting of its Board of Directors, announced the appointment of certain senior executive officers. Marco Palmieri, Tadeu Nardocci and Erwin Mayr were each appointed as regional presidents for North America, South America and Europe, respectively.

Mr. Palmieri has been named senior vice president and president, Novelis North America, effective as of June 1, 2013. Mr. Palmieri has served as senior vice president and president, Novelis South America, since joining the Company in 2011. Prior to joining the Company, Mr. Palmieri spent more than 30 years in the metals and engineering industries, including more than 25 years with Rio Tinto Alcan, where he held a succession of international leadership positions in various areas, including business development, primary metal and energy production. Prior to Novelis, Mr. Palmieri was most recently Aluminum Business Director for Votorantim Metais Ltd.

Mr. Palmieri will succeed Tom Walpole, who is retiring from the Company effective June 30, 2013. In connection with his departure, Mr. Walpole will receive compensation consistent with the employment agreements between Mr. Walpole and the Company as described in the Company's annual report on Form 10-K for the year ended March 31, 2013.

Mr. Nardocci has been named senior vice president and president, Novelis South America, effective as of May 20, 2013. Mr. Nardocci was most recently senior vice president and president, Novelis Europe, since June 2009. He previously served as the Company's Senior Vice President, Strategy, Innovation and Technology from August 2008 to June 2009, and as Senior Vice President and President of the Company's South American operations from February 2005 to August 2008.

Mr. Mayr has been named senior vice president and president, Novelis Europe, effective immediately. Mr. Mayr was previously senior vice president, chief strategy and commercial officer for the Company since April 2011, and prior to that served as the Company's Senior Vice President and Chief Strategy Officer since October 2009. He previously held a number of leadership positions within the Company's European operations, including Business Unit President, Advanced Rolled Products, from 2002 until 2009.

A copy of a press release announcing such appointments is attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1 and incorporated by reference herein.

Item 8.01. Other Events.

In connection with the announcement of the appointments described in Item 5.02 above, on May 15, 2013, the Company also announced the appointment of Brad Soultz to succeed Mr. Mayr as vice president, chief strategy and commercial officer of the Company, effective immediately, in the press release attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1 and incorporated by reference herein.

Novelis Announces Executive Leadership Appointments

New senior leaders named in three regions as company prepares for global growth

ATLANTA, May 15, 2013 – Novelis, the world leader in aluminum rolling and recycling, today announced a number of senior executive moves designed to further accelerate its “One Novelis” global integration strategy. Company executives Marco Palmieri, Tadeu Nardocci and Erwin Mayr have been appointed as regional presidents for North America, South America and Europe, respectively, and Brad Soultz has been named head of global strategy and commercial activities.

“With assets on four continents and operations in 11 countries, we have been steadily growing our reputation for being a globally oriented company, focused on providing innovative, sustainable solutions to our customers,” said Phil Martens, president and CEO of Novelis. “As our customer base becomes increasingly globally organized, having senior executives who understand our business around the world will ensure that we are providing our customers with a seamless experience, wherever they are.”

Novelis North America

Marco Palmieri has been named senior vice president and president, Novelis North America, effective June 1. Palmieri will have responsibility for all aspects of the company’s largest region, which is currently experiencing a step-change in its product offerings as it increases its sales to the automotive sector.

Palmieri has served as senior vice president and president, Novelis South America, since joining the company in 2011. During this time, he has built an integrated management team in this complex geographic region and led a $300 million investment to expand Novelis’ aluminum rolling and recycling operations to serve South America’s rapidly expanding beverage can market.

Palmieri succeeds Tom Walpole, who is retiring from Novelis on June 30, after a 34-year career with the company.

Walpole has held a number of key leadership positions with Novelis since 1979, including plant manager of the company’s Oswego facility, vice president and general manager of the can business unit, and senior vice president and president, Novelis Asia. Walpole serves on the board of directors for the Aluminum Association and the Can Manufacturers Institute.

Novelis South America

Tadeu Nardocci has been named senior vice president and president, Novelis South America, effective May 20. As head of Novelis' fastest-growing region, Nardocci will lead all aspects of the company's business in South America, including the ongoing expansion of aluminum rolling and recycling operations at Novelis' plant in Pindamonhangaba, Brazil.

Nardocci was most recently senior vice president and president, Novelis Europe, where he led the revitalization of the company's business in the region, including increasing its focus on the automotive market and on closed-loop recycling agreements with automotive customers. Under his leadership, Novelis announced a $250 million investment in Nachterstedt, Germany, to build the world's largest and most advanced aluminum recycling center.

Nardocci joined the company in 1978 as an engineer in Brazil. He has held positions of increasing responsibility with Novelis, including managing director of the company's operations in Malaysia; senior corporate vice president in charge of innovation, technology and strategy; and a previous assignment as senior vice president and president, Novelis South America.

Novelis Europe

Erwin Mayr has been named senior vice president and president, Novelis Europe, effective immediately. As head of Novelis' second-largest region, Mayr will have responsibility for all aspects of the company's European business, including sales, operations and strategy implementation.

Mayr was previously senior vice president, chief strategy and commercial officer, with responsibility for creating the company's global strategy and overseeing all of its key customer relationships and other commercial activities.

Mayr joined Novelis in 2002 as vice president, business planning and strategy. During his tenure, he has also served as business unit president, Advanced Rolled Products, for Novelis Europe.

Global Strategy and Commercial

Brad Soultz succeeds Erwin Mayr as vice president, chief strategy and commercial officer, effective immediately. Soultz will be responsible for developing Novelis' global strategy and leading the global commercial organizations, with a focus on growing the company's sales and customer base.

Soultz has a multinational background, having worked in Asia, Europe and North America. Prior to Novelis, he was managing director with Cummins Inc. Since joining Novelis in 2005, he has held a number of leadership positions, most recently serving as vice president, global supply chain. He has also served as vice president, Global Specialty Products; vice president and general manager of Novelis' Automotive and Specialty Products businesses in North America; and vice president and general manager for Light-Gauge Products in North America.

All of the named executives will report directly to Novelis' president and CEO, Phil Martens.

"We have made considerable investments to further develop our people and strengthen our leadership capabilities over the past few years," Martens said. "As a result, we have built a world-class senior executive team that is well-prepared to accelerate Novelis' growth and execute on its global business strategy."
