ANNUAL REPORT

OCTOBER 31, 1993

PRUDENTIAL
PACIFIC
GROWTH FUND, INC. AT A GLANCE

The Fund seeks long-term growth of capital by investing primarily in stocks of companies in the Pacific Basin region.

The chart shows comparative historical investment results for the one-year, five-year and since inception periods ended October 31, 1993 for the Class A shares of the Fund, the Class B shares of the Fund, the Lipper Pacific Region Average and the Morgan Stanley Pacific Region Index, without taking into account front-end or contingent deferred sales charges.

The chart also shows the average annual total returns for the one-year, five-year and since inception periods ended September 30, 1993 for Class A and Class B shares taking into account any applicable sales charges.

1Source: Lipper Analytical Services, Inc. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. Investment return and principal value will fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. These figures do not take into account sales charges. The Fund charges a maximum front-end sales load of 5.25% for Class A shares. Class B shares are subject to a declining contingent deferred sales charge of 5%, 4%, 3%, 2%, 1% and 1%, during the first six years.

3Source: Prudential Mutual Fund Management. These averages take into account applicable sales charges.

*These are the average returns of 33 funds in the Pacific region fund category, as determined by Lipper Analytical Services, Inc.

The Morgan Stanley Pacific Region Index is an average weighted by market value of the performance of 355 companies listed in the stock markets of Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore/Malaysia, plus 61 Australian and New Zealand companies.

Two mountain charts show the growth of an assumed investment of $10,000 in Prudential Pacific Growth Fund. The charts represent historical performance and are not a guarantee of future performance of Class A shares or Class B shares.

The chart shows the growth of a $10,000 investment in Class A shares from inception on July 24, 1992 through September 30, 1993, and assumes a front-end sales charge of 5.25%. The chart shows the value of the investment as of September 30, 1993 (i) with the reinvestment of dividends and distributions in additional shares of the Fund and (ii) with all dividends and distributions taken in cash.

The chart shows the growth of a $10,000 investment in Class B shares from inception on July 24, 1992 through September 30, 1993, and does not assume the effect of a contingent deferred sales charge on redemptions. The chart shows the value of the investment as of September 30, 1993 (i) with the reinvestment of dividends and distributions in additional shares of the Fund and (ii) with all dividends and distributions taken in cash.

UNDERSTANDING

PERFORMANCE

Historical Investment Results represent the cumulative total returns for a specified period. These returns assume the reinvestment of dividends and distributions but do not take into account the applicable sales charges.

Average Annual Total Returns are not actual yearly results but even out performance so that investors can compare different funds on an equal basis. These returns take into account sales charges and would produce the same results as the historical total returns if performance had been constant over the entire period.

Bar chart showing asset allocation by country as a percent of net assets. The chart shows that, as of October 31, 1993, the Fund had 37.1% of its net assets invested in Japan, 15.2% in Malaysia, 12.7% in Hong Kong, 10.9% in Singapore, 6.9% in Australia, 5.4% in Korea, 1.9% in Thailand, 0.8% in Indonesia, 0.3% in India and 8.8% in Cash.

LETTER TO SHAREHOLDERS

December 14, 1993

Dear Shareholder:

We are pleased to report that over the past year the Prudential Pacific Growth Fund has benefitted from the strong returns of many Pacific Basin stocks and has outperformed Morgan Stanley's Pacific Region Index, an unmanaged index of 355 companies listed on the stock exchanges of Japan, Hong Kong and Singapore/Malaysia, plus 61 Australian and New Zealand companies.

The Prudential Pacific Growth Fund seeks long-term growth of capital from a portfolio of common stocks and other securities of companies from the Pacific Basin region. The Fund's objective and policies cause it to be subject to greater investment risks than certain other mutual funds. Foreign currency risk, or the chance the Fund's shares will fluctuate in price based on changes in exchange rates, is one of these. Additional risks include political and social developments that can also affect performance.

Market Booms

Over the past 12 months, investing in the Pacific Rim markets has been profitable for dollar-based investors. Japan was the world's best-performing stock market during this period, as investors looked for an end to the recession there. Japan's change in political leadership should also benefit investors over the long term. The gains made in this region owe greatly to the rise of the yen, which augmented share returns as they were translated into U.S. dollars.

Market performance in the other Pacific Rim markets was positive as well. The Hong Kong market was driven higher by optimism about growth in China. In Australia, an end to the recession brought on by lower interest rates helped its stock market gain. And in Singapore, the government's calculated effort to boost local participation in the equity market was successful.

Consumer Focus Grows in Japan

We have shifted our strategy in Japan. The Fund's holdings have been restructured to increase emphasis on consumer-driven companies, while diminishing the focus on public works companies. The new strategy anticipates a more hospitable environment for consumers because of Japan's new government. We took profits in engineering firms like P.S. Corp., a public works construction firm and bought Higashi Nihon House, a builder of single-family homes.

Our strategy for the rest of the portfolio generally remained unchanged since last year. Hong Kong holdings were reduced to protect profits gained during that market's advance. For example, positions in New World Development and Cheung Kong Holdings were sold.

Southeast Asia and Australia

In Korea, our emphasis on construction firms continues. Korea is much like Japan in the early 80s; a growing international force with strong government support for exports. Pusan Steel Pipe and Dong-Ah Construction are two of the larger holdings here. We expect these companies to benefit from their ties to China, as well.

In Singapore, the government's decision to broaden the scope of the nation's Central Provident Fund (CPF) had a dramatic, favorable impact on the market. The CPF is a mandatory retirement plan to which both employers and employees must contribute. Previously, investment options were limited, but last spring, the government said that the CPF would be permitted to buy shares of domestic companies and real estate.

In Australia, the Fund purchased a position in Broken Hill Proprietary, a mining and steel concern, which is expected to benefit from the country's improving economy.

Looking to 1994

Asia appears to be the "growth jewel" in the world's "investment crown". The mature economies of the U.S. and Europe seem to be settling into periods of slow, although steady, economic growth. On the other hand, we believe Japan's trend toward a consumer-based economy should bode well for all the booming nearby economies, including Malaysia, Singapore and Korea or Indonesia. Investors who seek higher returns and have the risk tolerance--and the patience to ride out possible market fluctuations--should find opportunities there.

As always, we are pleased to have you as a shareholder of the Prudential Pacific Growth Fund and to report our activities to you.

Sincerely,

Lawrence C. McQuade
President

Daniel J. Duane
Portfolio Manager

Pie chart showing asset allocation by type of investment as a percent of net assets. As of October 31, 1993, the chart shows the Fund had 87% of its net assets invested in stocks, 1.7% in bonds, 8.8% in cash and 2.5% in other investments.

PORTFOLIO

Dan Duane

Following is an interview with Dan Duane, portfolio manager of the Prudential Pacific Growth Fund.

Q. How do you think Hong Kong businesses will fare when it reverts to China's control in 1997?

A. We have been selling portfolio holdings and taking profits in Hong Kong during the year, in the belief the greatest gains have already been made there. That is not to say we don't see opportunities once the administration of Hong Kong has passed to China. In fact, some companies located in Hong Kong may thrive under the new regime. Industries I expect to prosper include property investment companies, trading companies and industrial firms. Once prices have adjusted in these areas, I expect to begin searching for new growth opportunities for the Fund's shareholders.

Q. Do you plan to begin investing more in China any time soon?

A. China is a rapidly growing economy with a lot of potential. However, we prefer to avoid direct investment there until the political and socioeconomic picture has clarified somewhat. Factors that concern me include local accounting practices and management skills. In addition, I will be watching for signs that Chinese plant managers are committed to profitability, rather than simply maintaining employment levels. In the meantime, I am pursuing opportunities in neighboring nations where companies have longstanding cross-border ties. These could be termed "'indirect'" investments in China, and they may offer our shareholders a way to profit from expected explosive growth there without facing all the risks inherent in investments in new, emerging economies.

Q. How did the sharp drop in Japanese stock prices in November affect the Fund?

A. Like most global funds with Japanese exposure, the Prudential Pacific Growth Fund was not immune to the market downturn. Fortunately, the Fund has been underweighted in Japan for some time--more than 40% below the Morgan Stanley Pacific Region Index. In addition, we have been less affected than the Japanese market because we've shied away from large exporters and bank stocks, which were particularly hard hit.

Our long-term strategy in Japan is to find stocks of medium-sized companies with strong growth prospects selling at reasonable prices. However, we do expect to experience some short-term volatility. Going forward, I still believe the Japanese economy is nearing a bottom and the market should present some attractive buying opportunities.

PRUDENTIAL PACIFIC GROWTH FUND, INC.
Notes to Financial Statements

Prudential Pacific Growth Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 as a diversified, open-end management investment company. The Fund was incorporated in Maryland on August 14, 1991 and had no operations other than the issuance of 5,000 shares each of Class A and Class B common stock for $100,000 on May 6, 1992 to Prudential Mutual Fund Management, Inc. ("PMF"). The Fund commenced investment operations on July 24, 1992. The investment objective of the Fund is to seek long-term capital growth by investing primarily in common stocks, common stock equivalents and other securities of companies doing business in or domiciled in the Pacific Basin region.

Note 1. Accounting Policies The following is a summary of significant accounting policies followed by the Fund in the preparation of its financial statements.

Securities Valuation: Securities traded on an exchange (whether domestic or foreign) are valued at the last reported sales price on the primary exchange on which they are traded. Securities traded in the over-the-counter market (including securities listed on exchanges for which a last sales price is not available) are valued at the average of the last reported bid and asked prices. Any securities or other assets for which current market quotations are not readily available are valued at fair value as determined in good faith under procedures established by and under the general supervision and responsibility of the Fund's Board of Directors. No such securities were held by the Fund at October 31, 1993.

Short-term securities which mature in more than 60 days are valued at current market quotations. Short-term securities which mature in 60 days or less are valued at amortized cost.

In connection with transactions in repurchase agreements with U.S. financial institutions, it is the Fund's policy that its custodian takes possession of the underlying collateral securities, the value of which exceeds the principal amount of the repurchase transaction including accrued interest. If the seller defaults and the value of the collateral declines or if bankruptcy proceedings are commenced with respect to the seller of the security, realization of the collateral by the Fund may be delayed or limited.

Foreign Currency Translation: The books and records of the Fund are maintained in U.S. dollars. Foreign currency amounts are translated into U.S. dollars on the following basis:

(i) market value of investment securities, other assets and liabilities--at the closing rates of exchange;

(ii) purchases and sales of investment securities, income and expenses--at the rate of exchange prevailing on the respective dates of such transactions.

Although the net assets of the Fund are presented at the foreign exchange rates and market values at the close of the year, the Fund does not isolate that portion of the results of operations arising as a result of changes in the foreign exchange rates from the fluctuations arising from changes in the market prices of securities held at the end of the fiscal year.

Net realized gains on foreign currency transactions of $436,108 represent net foreign exchange gains from forward currency contracts, disposition of foreign currencies, currency gains or losses realized between the trade and settlement dates on security transactions, and the difference between the amounts of interest, dividends and foreign taxes recorded on the Fund's books and the U.S. dollar equivalent amounts actually received or paid. Net currency gains and losses from valuing foreign currency denominated assets and liabilities, other than investments, at fiscal year end exchange rates are reflected as a component of unrealized appreciation on foreign currencies.

Foreign security and currency transactions may involve certain considerations and risks not typically associated with those of domestic origin as a result of, among other factors, the possibility of political and economic instability and the level of governmental supervision and regulation of foreign securities markets.

Forward Currency Contracts: The Fund enters into forward currency contracts in order to hedge its exposure to changes in foreign currency exchange rates on its foreign portfolio holdings. A forward contract is a commitment to purchase or sell a foreign currency at a future date at a negotiated forward rate. The gain or loss arising from the difference between the settlement value of the original and renegotiated forward contracts, if any, is isolated and is included in net realized gains from foreign currency transactions. Risks may arise upon entering into these contracts from the potential inability of the counterparties to meet the terms of their contracts.

Securities Transactions and Investment Income: Securities transactions are recorded on the trade date. Realized gains and losses from investment and foreign currency transactions are calculated on the identified cost basis. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date and interest income is recorded on an accrual basis.

Net investment income or loss (other than distribution fees) and unrealized and realized gains or losses are allocated daily to each class of shares of the Fund based upon the relative proportion of net assets of each class at the beginning of the day.

Dividends and Distributions: The Fund expects to pay dividends of net investment income and distributions of net realized capital and currency gains, if any, annually. Dividends and distributions are recorded on the ex-dividend date.

Income distributions and capital gain distributions are determined in accordance with income tax regulations which may differ from generally accepted accounting principles.

Taxes: It is the Fund's policy to meet the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies and to distribute all of its taxable income to shareholders. Therefore, no federal income tax provision is required.

Withholding taxes on foreign dividends and interest have been provided for in accordance with the Fund's understanding of the applicable country's tax rules and rates.

Deferred Organization Expenses: Approximately $200,000 of organization and initial registration costs have been deferred and are being amortized over the period of benefit not to exceed 60 months from the date the Fund commenced investment operations.

Reclassification of Capital Accounts: Effective November 1, 1992, the Fund began accounting and reporting for distributions to shareholders in accordance with Statement of Position 93-2: Determination, Disclosure, and Financial Statement Presentation of Income, Capital Gain, and Return of Capital Distributions by Investment Companies. As a result of this statement, the Fund changed the classification of distributions to shareholders to better disclose the differences between financial statement amounts and distributions determined in accordance with income tax regulations. The effect caused by adopting this statement was to decrease accumulated net investment loss and decrease accumulated net realized gains on investments and foreign currency transactions by $727,674 with respect to amounts reported through October 31, 1993. Net investment income, net realized gains and net assets were not affected by this change.

Note 2. Agreements The Fund has a management agreement with PMF. Pursuant to this agreement, PMF has responsibility for all investment advisory services and supervises the subadviser's performance of such services. PMF has entered into a subadvisory agreement with The Prudential Investment Corporation ('PIC'); PIC furnishes investment advisory services in connection with the management of the Fund. PMF pays for the cost of the subadviser's services, the compensation of officers of the Fund, occupancy and certain clerical and bookkeeping costs of the Fund. The Fund bears all other costs and expenses.

The management fee paid PMF is computed daily and payable monthly at an annual rate of .75 of 1% of the average daily net assets of the Fund.

The Fund has distribution agreements with Prudential Mutual Fund Distributors, Inc. ('PMFD'), which acts as the distributor of the Class A shares of the Fund, and Prudential Securities Incorporated ('PSI'), which acts as distributor of the Class B shares of the Fund (collectively the 'Distributors'). To reimburse the Distributors for their expenses incurred in distributing and servicing the Fund's Class A and B shares, the Fund, pursuant to plans of distribution, pays the Distributors a reimbursement, accrued daily and payable monthly.

Pursuant to the Class A Plan, the Fund reimburses PMFD for its distribution-related expenses with respect to Class A shares at an annual rate of up to .30 of 1% of the average daily net assets of the Class A shares. Such expenses under the Class A Plan were .20 of 1% of the average daily net assets of the Class A shares for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1993. PMFD pays various broker-dealers, including PSI and Pruco Securities Corporation ('Prusec'), affiliated broker-dealers, for account servicing fees and other expenses incurred by such broker-dealers.

Pursuant to the Class B Plan, the Fund reimburses PSI for its distribution-related expenses with respect to the Class B shares at an annual rate of up to 1% of the average daily net assets of the Class B shares.

The Class B distribution expenses include commission credits for payment of commissions and account servicing fees to financial advisers and an allocation for overhead and other branch office distribution-related expenses, interest and/or carrying charges, the cost of printing and mailing prospectuses to potential investors and of advertising incurred in connection with the distribution of shares.

The Distributors recover the distribution expenses and service fees incurred through the receipt of reimbursement payments from the Fund under the plans and the receipt of initial sales charges (Class A only) and contingent deferred sales charges (Class B only) from shareholders.

PMFD has advised the Fund that it has received approximately $1,305,500 in front-end sales charges resulting from sales of Class A shares during the fiscal year ended October 31, 1993. From these fees, PMFD paid such sales charges to dealers (PSI and Prusec) which in turn paid commissions to salespersons and incurred other distribution costs.

With respect to the Class B Plan, at any given time, the amount of expenses incurred by PSI in distributing the Fund's shares and not recovered through the imposition of contingent deferred sales charges in connection with certain redemptions of shares may exceed the total payments made by the Fund pursuant to the Plan. For the fiscal year ended October 31, 1993, PSI advised the Fund that it received approximately $168,400 in contingent deferred sales charges imposed upon certain redemptions by investors. PSI, as distributor, has also advised the Fund that as of October 31, 1993, the amount of distribution expenses incurred by PSI and not yet reimbursed by the Fund or recovered through contingent deferred sales charges approximated $6,322,200. This amount may be recovered through future payments under the Class B Plan or contingent deferred sales charges.

In the event of termination or noncontinuation of the Class B Plan, the Fund would not be contractually obligated to pay PSI, as distributor, for any expenses not previously reimbursed or recovered through contingent deferred sales charges.

PMFD is a wholly-owned subsidiary of PMF; PSI, PMF and PIC are (indirect) wholly-owned subsidiaries of The Prudential Insurance Company of America ('Prudential').

Note 3. Other Prudential Mutual Fund
Transactions Services, Inc. ('PMFS'), a
With Affiliates wholly owned subsidiary of PMF, serves as the Fund's transfer agent. During the year ended October 31, 1993, the Fund incurred fees of approximately $128,000 for the services of PMFS. As of October 31, 1993, approximately $29,000 of such fees were due to PMFS. Transfer agent fees and expenses in the statement of operations include certain out-of-pocket expenses paid to non-affiliates.

For the fiscal year ended October 31, 1993, PSI received approximately $6,500 in brokerage commissions from portfolio transactions executed on behalf of the Fund.

Note 4. Portfolio Purchases and sales of Securities investment securities, other than short-term investments, for the year ended
October 31, 1993 were $258,325,430 and $43,659,682, respectively.

The United States federal income tax basis of the Fund's investments at October 31, 1993 was $260,405,940 and accordingly, net unrealized appreciation for federal income tax purposes was $41,678,208 (gross unrealized appreciation--$45,195,586; gross unrealized depreciation--$3,517,378).

At October 31, 1993, the Fund had outstanding forward currency contracts to sell foreign currencies as follows:

The following two charts compare a $10,000 investment in Class A shares and Class B shares, with a similar investment in the Morgan Stanley Pacific Index. Included in the charts are the average annual total returns for each Class for the one-year and since inception periods with and without sales charges.

Past performance is not predictive of future performance and an investor's shares may be worth more or less than their original cost.

These graphs are furnished to you in accordance with SEC regulations. They compare a $10,000 investment in Prudential Pacific Growth Fund (Class A and Class B) with a similar investment in the Morgan Stanley Capital International "Pacific" Index (Pacific Index) by portraying the initial account values at the commencement of operations of each class and subsequent account values at the end of each fiscal year (October 31), as measured on a quarterly basis, beginning in 1992 for Class A and Class B shares. For purposes of the graphs and, unless otherwise indicated, the accompanying tables, it has been assumed that (a) the maximum sales charge was deducted from the initial $10,000 investment in Class A shares; (b) the maximum applicable contingent deferred sales charge was deducted from the value of the investment in Class B shares assuming full redemption on October 31, 1993; (c) all recurring fees (including management fees) were deducted; and (d) all dividends and distributions were reinvested.

The Pacific Index is a weighted index comprised of approximately 416 companies listed in the stock markets of Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore/Malaysia, Australia, and New Zealand. The Pacific Index is an unmanaged index and includes the reinvestment of all dividends, but does not reflect the payment of transaction costs and advisory fees associated with an investment in the Fund. The securities which comprise the Pacific Index may differ substantially from the securities in the Fund's portfolio. The Pacific Index is not the only index which may be used to characterize performance of Pacific region funds and other indexes may portray different comparative performance.
