Investment Goal

The Portfolio's investment goal is long-term growth of capital.

Fees and Expenses of the Portfolio

This table describes the fees and expenses that you may pay if you buy and hold shares of the Portfolio. The Portfolio's annual operating expenses do not reflect the separate account fees charged in the variable annuity or variable life insurance policy ("Variable Contracts"), as defined herein, in which the Portfolio is offered. Please see your Variable Contract prospectus for more details on the separate account fees.

Expense Example

This Example is intended to help you compare the cost of investing in the Portfolio with the cost of investing in other mutual funds. The Example assumes that you invest $10,000 in the Portfolio for the time periods indicated and then redeem all of your shares at the end of those periods. The Example also assumes that your investment has a 5% return each year and that Contract. See the Variable Contract prospectus for information on such charges. Although your actual costs may be higher or lower, based on these assumptions and the net expenses shown in the fee table, your costs would be:

	1 Year	3 Years	5 Years	10 Years
Class 1 Shares	$ 70	$ 221	$ 384	$ 859
Class 2 Shares	86	268	466	1,037
Class 3 Shares	96	300	520	1,155

Portfolio Turnover

The Portfolio pays transaction costs, such as commissions, when it buys and sells securities (or "turns over" its portfolio). A higher portfolio turnover may indicate higher transaction costs. These costs, which are not reflected in annual fund operating expenses or in the example, affect the Portfolio's performance. During the most recent fiscal year, the Portfolio's portfolio turnover rate was 94% of the average value of its portfolio.

Principal Investment Strategies of the Portfolio

The Portfolio attempts to achieve its investment goal by investing primarily in equity securities of a limited number of large, carefully selected, high quality U.S. companies that are judged likely to achieve superior earnings. The Portfolio may also invest up to 25% of its assets in foreign securities, including emerging market securities.

The subadviser's investment process is driven by bottom-up stock selection. Generally, the subadviser constructs a portfolio the Portfolio's operating expenses remain the same. The Example does not reflect charges imposed by the Variable talented management teams and growth prospects that the subadviser deems to be superior to consensus expectations over coming quarters. Stock selection is the primary driver of investment decisions, with all other decisions purely a by-product of the stock-selection process.

The subadviser believes that investment success comes from focusing on companies poised to exceed consensus growth expectations on the upside. As a result, the Portfolio tends to exhibit strong earnings growth relative to consensus and to the benchmark as a whole, which typically results in attractive valuations.

Principal Risks of Investing in the Portfolio

There can be no assurance that the Portfolio’s investment goal will be met or that the net return on an investment in the Portfolio will exceed what could have been obtained through other investment or savings vehicles. Shares of the Portfolio are not bank deposits and are not guaranteed or insured by any bank, government entity or the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. As with any mutual fund, there is no guarantee that the Portfolio will be able to achieve its investment goals. If the value of the assets of the Portfolio goes down, you could lose money.

The following is a summary description of the principal risks of investing in the Portfolio.

Equity Securities Risk. The Portfolio invests principally in equity securities and is therefore subject to the risk that stock prices will fall and may underperform other asset classes. Individual stock prices fluctuate from day-to-day and may decline significantly. The prices of individual stocks may be negatively affected by poor company results or other factors affecting individual prices, as well as industry and/or economic trends and developments affecting industries or the securities market as a whole.

Large-Cap Companies Risk. Large-cap companies tend to be less volatile than companies with smaller market capitalizations. In exchange for this potentially lower risk, the Portfolio’s value may not rise as much as the value of portfolios that emphasize smaller companies.

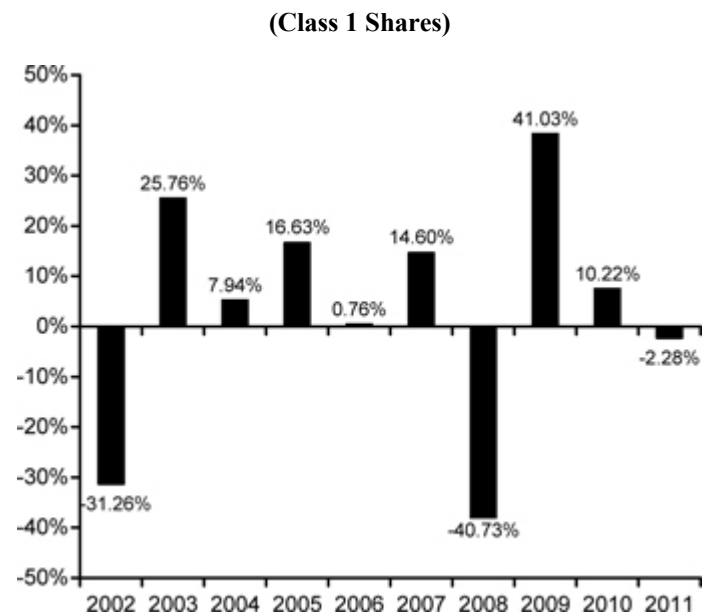

Growth Stock Risk. Growth stocks are historically volatile, which will affect the Portfolio.

Foreign Investment Risk. The value of your investment may be affected by fluctuating currency values, changing local and Emerging market countries may be more likely to experience political turmoil or rapid changes in economic conditions than developed countries. As a result, these markets are generally more volatile than the markets of developed countries.

Performance Information

The following Risk/Return Bar Chart and Table illustrate the risks of investing in the Portfolio by showing changes in the Portfolio’s performance from calendar year to calendar year and comparing the Portfolio’s average annual returns to those of the Russell 1000® Growth Index. Fees and expenses incurred at the contract level are not reflected in the bar chart or table. If these amounts were reflected, returns would be less than those shown. Of course, past performance is not necessarily an indication of how the Portfolio will perform in the future.

During the 10-year period shown in the bar chart, the highest return for a quarter was 16.92% (quarter ended June 30, 2009) and the lowest return for a quarter was -22.07% (quarter ended December 31, 2008). The year to date calendar return as of March 31, 2012 was 17.95%.

regional economic, political and social conditions, and greater market volatility. In addition, foreign securities may not be as liquid as domestic securities.

Emerging Markets Risk. The risks associated with investment in foreign securities are heightened when issuers of these securities are in developing or “emerging market” countries.

The Portfolio will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax on the net investment company taxable income or net capital gains distributed to shareholders as ordinary income dividends or capital gain dividends; however, you may be subject to federal income tax upon withdrawal from such tax deferred arrangements.
