Investment Goal

The Portfolio's investment goal is capital appreciation.

Fees and Expenses of the Portfolio

This table describes the fees and expenses that you may pay if you buy and hold shares of the Portfolio. The Portfolio's annual operating expenses do not reflect the separate account fees charged in the variable annuity or variable life insurance policy ("Variable Contracts"), as defined herein, in which the Portfolio is offered. Please see your Variable Contract prospectus for more details on the separate account fees.

Annual Portfolio Operating Expenses (expenses that you pay each year as a percentage of the value of your investment)

Expense Example

This Example is intended to help you compare the cost of investing in the Portfolio with the cost of investing in other mutual funds. The Example assumes that you invest $10,000 in the Portfolio for the time periods indicated and then redeem all of your shares at the end of those periods. The Example also on such charges. Although your actual costs may be higher or lower, based on these assumptions and the net expenses shown in the fee table, your costs would be:

Class 1 Shares	$92	$287	$498	$1,108
Class 2 Shares	107	334	579	1,283
Class 3 Shares	117	365	633	1,398

Portfolio Turnover

The Portfolio pays transaction costs, such as commissions, when it buys and sells securities (or "turns over" its portfolio). A higher portfolio turnover may indicate higher transaction costs. These costs, which are not reflected in annual fund operating expenses or in the example, affect the Portfolio's performance. During the most recent fiscal year, the Portfolio's portfolio turnover rate was 164% of the average value of its portfolio.

Principal Investment Strategies of the Portfolio

The Portfolio attempts to achieve its goal by investing primarily in common and preferred stocks of U.S. companies.

The Portfolio invests principally in equity securities of small and mid-capitalization companies that offer the potential for capital growth, with an emphasis on identifying companies that have the prospect for improving sales and earnings growth rates, enjoy a competitive advantage and have effective management with a history of making investments that are in the best interests of shareholders. The subadviser may engage in frequent and active trading of portfolio securities.

The subadviser's management team distinctly differentiates its investment process through the following five main tenets:

- 1 - SunAmerica Series Trust

AGGRESSIVE GROWTH PORTFOLIO

Research designed to “Surround the Company.” The team employs a rigorous bottom-up research process to identify solid investments.

Research companies across the market cap spectrum to develop unique fundamental insights. Although the investment team manages large cap, mid cap, and small- to mid-cap strategies, the investment team invests primarily in small- to mid-cap strategies.

Analysis of current balance sheet to understand future earnings. Financial analysis focuses equally on a company’s income statement and its balance sheet.

Disciplined management of valuation targets. The team establishes near-term and long-term price targets for each holding in the portfolio.

Construct a portfolio to balance return vs. risk. The portfolio composition is closely monitored, as the subadviser believes that constructing a well-diversified portfolio further reduces risk while enhancing return.

The Portfolio may also invest in U.S. dollar-denominated and U.S. exchange-traded foreign equities, American Depositary Receipts (“ADRs”).

Principal Risks of Investing in the Portfolio

There can be no assurance that the Portfolio’s investment goal will be met or that the net return on an investment in the Portfolio will exceed what could have been obtained through other investment or savings vehicles. Shares of the Portfolio are not bank deposits and are not guaranteed or insured by any bank, government entity or the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. As with any mutual fund, there is no guarantee that the Portfolio will be able to achieve its investment goals. If the value of the assets of the Portfolio goes down, you could lose money.

The following is a summary description of the principal risks of investing in the Portfolio.

Equity Securities Risk. The Portfolio invests principally in equity securities and is therefore subject to the risk that stock prices will fall and may underperform other asset classes. Individual stock prices fluctuate from day-to-day and may decline significantly. The prices of individual stocks may be negatively affected by poor company results or other factors affecting individual prices, as well as industry and/or economic

Small and Medium Sized Companies Risk. Securities of small and medium sized companies are usually more volatile and entail greater risks than securities of large companies.

Technology Company Risk. Technology companies may react similarly to certain market pressures and events. They may be significantly affected by short product cycles, aggressive pricing of products and services, competition from new market entrants and obsolescence of existing technology. As a result, the Portfolio’s returns may be considerably more volatile than those of a fund that does not invest in technology companies.

Active Trading Risk. A strategy used whereby the Portfolio may engage in frequent trading of portfolio securities to achieve its investment goal. Active trading may result in high portfolio turnover and correspondingly greater brokerage commissions and other transaction costs for the Portfolio.

Depository Receipts Risk. Depository receipts, such as American Depositary Receipts (“ADRs”) and other depository receipts, including Global Depository Receipts (“GDRs”), European Depositary Receipts (“EDRs”) are generally subject to the same risks as the foreign securities that they evidence or into which they may be converted. Depository receipts may or may not be jointly sponsored by the underlying issuer. The issuers of unsponsored depository receipts are not obligated to disclose information that is considered material in the United States. Therefore, there may be less information available regarding these issuers and there may not be a correlation between such information and the market value of the depository receipts. Certain depository receipts are not listed on an exchange and therefore may be considered to be illiquid securities.

Performance Information

The following Risk/Return Bar Chart and Table illustrate the risks of investing in the Portfolio by showing changes in the Portfolio’s performance from calendar year to calendar year and comparing the Portfolio’s average annual returns to those of the Russell 2500 Growth Index. Fees and expenses incurred at the contract level are not reflected in the bar chart or table. If these amounts were reflected, returns would be less than those shown. Of course, past performance is not necessarily an indication of how the Portfolio will perform in the future.

trends and developments affecting industries or the securities market as a whole.
